Are you interested in Ancient Civilizations?

Join a unique new course taught in English offered in cooperation with the Pontificia Universidad Católica del Perú (PUCP) & the Department of Archaeology at Lund University:

Andean Archaeology

The course covers the cultural development in the Andes mainly of Peru but also of the adjoining region. The course will give an overview of the archaeological sources especially from the Moche and Inca Cultures.

Anthropological theories and methods for learning about highly developed societies and their decline will also be studied read more on: http://www.ark.lu.se/utbildning/kurser-varen-2011

---

Course information

ARKA13 Andean Archaeology, 7.5 credits

4 April – 13 May 2011. Late afternoons at the Department of Archaeology

Pre-requisites: General.

Apply by email to Nina.Martensson@ark.lu.se

Lecturers
Luis Jaime Castillo, Dept. of Archaeology, PUCP, Lima, Peru
Carlos E. Rengifo, SCVA, University of East Anglia, UK
Per Cornell, University of Gothenburg